on the place? Miss Pelham is good enough for any one of us. I'd be proud to have her as my wife— if I lived at Hammersmith Bridge."

"You amaze me, sir!"
"She's a very pretty girl," volunteer d Chase glibly.

"Oh, she could marry like a flash in New York," said Britt. "A dozen men I know of are crazy about her—good looking chaps too." The sarcasm escaped Saunders, who was fidgeting un-

"Of course, you know, the breaking of the engagement—I should say the row—wasn't of my doing," he unbmit-ted, pulling at his finger joints nerv-

"I'm afraid it can't be patched up elther," said Britt dolefully. "She's been insulted, you see."

"Saunders, we can't have our only mance marred by a breach of prom-e suft," said his lordship resolutely. There has simply got to be a wedding in the end or the whole world will hate us. So far you have been our prize ng lover. You are the undisputed ro. Don't spoil everything at the ment, Saunders. Patch it up and let's have a wedding in the last chapter. You should not ferget that it was you who advocated multimarriage. Try it once for yourself, and if you like it, by Jove, we'll all come to ur succeeding marriages and bless u, no matter how many wives you

Saunders, very much impressed by these confidences, bowed himself out of the room, followed by Britt, of m he implored help in the effort to bring about a reconciliation. He was sorely distressed by Butt's aparent reluctance to compromise the

The charity ball began at 10 o'clock, chedule time. Drusilla Browne, asserting herself as an American matron, insisted that the invitation list should include the lowly as well as the mighty. She had her way, and as result the bank employees, the ench maids, Antoine and the two porals of Rapp Thurberg's Royal and appeared on the floor in the and march directly behind Mr. Britt, Mr. Saunders and Miss Pelbam.

"One cannot discriminate at the charity ball," Drusilla stoutly main-tained. "The bot polloi and the riffraff always get in at home, so why

I shall feel as if I were dancing th my greengrocer," lamented Lady mes. Later on, when the dancing es at its height, she exclaimed with all the fervor of a charmed imaginaer-name must have felt, Bobby, when she danced all night at her own ball and then dressed for the guillotine instead of going to bed. We may all be shot in the morning."

a performance in the courtyard at mid-night. They were followed by the Bedouin tumblers and the inspired Persians, who danced with frantic abandon. There was but one unfor-tunate accident. Mr. Rivers, formerly of the bank, got very tight and fell down the steps leading to the court-yard, breaking his left arm. Lord Deppingham and Chase kept their heads. They saw to it that the watch over the grounds and about the chateau was strictly maintained. The former led the grand march with the ess, She was more ravishingly beautiful than ever. Hollingsworth Chase was dazzled. Something seemed to shout coarsely, scottingly into his ear: "Now do you realize the distance that lies between? She was made for kings and princes, not for such as

He waited long before presenting himself in quest of the dance he hun-gered for so greedily—afraid of her! She greeted him with a new, brighter light in her eyes. A quiver of delight long in restraint came into her voice. He saw and felt the welcome in her manner. The blood surged to his head. He mumbled his request. Then, for the first time, he was clasping her fingers, touching her waist, drawing her gently toward his heart. Once as they swept around the almost empty ballm she looked up into his eyes. Neither had spoken. His lips parted addenly, and his fingers closed down on hers, She saw the danger light his eyes and knew the unuttered words that struggled to his lips and stopped there. She never knew why her head before she lowered her eyes. He knew what she meant. His heart turned cold again, and the distance widened once more to the old propor-

He left her with Bobby Browne and went out upon the cool, starlit bal-cony. There he gently cursed himself for a fool, a dolt, an idiot.

The shouts of laughter and the clapping of hands on the inside did not draw him from his unhappy reverie. He did not know until afterward that the official announcement of the en-gagement of Miss Minnie Pelham and

The next moment a dark figure shot out from the shadows and slunk off into night, followed by another and another and yet others, seven in all. Then the truth suddenly dawned upon him. The prisoners had escaped from the dungeon!

> He dashed into the ballroom and shouted the alarm. Confusion ensued. "There's been treachery," he ex plained quickly. "Some one has re leased the prisoners. We must keep them from reaching the walls. They will overpower our guards and open the gates to the enemy. Britt, see that the searchlight is trained on the gates. We must stop those fellows before it is too late. Time enough to hunt for the traitor later on."

> Two minutes later a swarm of armed men forsook the mock charity ball and sallied forth to engage in realities Firing was soon heard at the western gate, half a mile away. Thitler the eager pursuers rushed. The wide ray from the searchlight swung done upon this gate and revealed the forms of struggling men.

> The prisoners had fallen suddenly upon the two Greeks who guarded the western gate, surprising them cleverly. Both fell under the clubbed guns of their adversaries.

> Chase and Selim were not more than hundred yards away when the Greeks went down. The blinding glare of the searchlight aided the puruers, who kept outside its radius. The fugitives, bewildered, confused by the bright glare in which they found themselves, faced the light boldly, five of them kneeling with guns raised to protect their two companions who started across the narrow strip, which separated them from the massive gate. Selim gave a shout and stopped sud-denly, throwing his rifle to his shoul-

"BILLY, THE KID." Billy, The Kid drama, is one of the best examples of its kind of this season's production. The play has for its locale that por-tion of the great Southwest which lies near the Mexican frontier. It tells a story of absorbing interest and is filled with situations, both highly dramatic and of that intensity demanded by the lovers of this class of performance. The central figure is that of a young man, forced to outlawry by his own father, yet there is an exceptionally well defined love interest. The players engaged for the leading roles are especially commendable and with the balance of the company make up a cast that is most worthy. "Billy, "The Vid" will be here for three days story of absorbing interest and is fillup a cast that is most worthy. "Billy,

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Men---Free

Send Name and Address Today-You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous

I have in my possesion a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhool, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the

of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor fall-re ever put together. I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmmay stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop mea lips like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4125 Luck Bullding, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this spiendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge.
